If you own land with a wall on a boundary, or you or a neighbouring landowner wish to carry out work on or near a boundary, you may well need the advice of a party wall surveyor to avoid, or resolve, a dispute. At Studholmes, we have extensive experience of party wall agreements and can offer you advice and guidance.

The Party Wall Act (1996) is an effective means of resolving party wall disputes. Mistakes and even good practice can be expensive but you can keep your costs to a minimum by taking the right course of action at the beginning. Whether you are planning to put up a new structure, change an existing structure or carry out excavations near a boundary, please get in touch with Studholmes for expert party wall advice.
